

Director of Training for leading Environmental, Health and Safety (EHS) Company.

Aerosol Monitoring & Analysis, Inc. (AMA) is a well-established, Environmental, Health & Safety (EHS) consulting and training business in search of a Director of Training to replace the retiring predecessor. Successful candidate will lead all aspects of the corporate Training Division. This is a senior level position responsible for the management, oversight, and profitability of the Training Division. As a corporate officer, the Director of Training reports directly to the company President. Ideal candidate will direct and actively participate as a trainer in EHS training programs, as well as client safety consulting projects. The candidate shall carry professional certification as a Certified Safety Professional (CSP) and/or Certified Industrial Hygienist (CIH) with 10+ year of experience. The candidate must demonstrate a passion for workplace safety compliance and imparting EHS principles to adult learners in industry.

About AMA: AMA is a specialized consulting firm, providing Industrial Hygiene, Environmental and Health & Safety services to government agencies, institutions, building owners, property managers, architects, and engineers. Additionally, AMA is one of the oldest environmental training providers in the Mid-Atlantic region. We provide training in a wide array of health & safety and environmental programs. Training programs include workplace compliance for OSHA, EPA/RCRA, Asbestos, Lead, and Mold. AMA offers open-enrollment courses at our Hanover, Maryland training center and contracted courses at client locations.

Responsibilities include:

- Oversee and manage all aspects of AMA's Training Division.
- Oversight and mentoring of 4+ full-time trainers and 2 administrative personnel.
- Oversee the design and development of training materials including manuals, multimedia, e-learning and other instructional supports.
- Collaborate with senior management to conduct training needs assessments to support new business or changes in business process and support other business EHS needs.
- Oversee the design, scheduling and implementation of open-enrollment and contract training courses that are provided in both virtual and in-person formats.
- Maintain relationships with accrediting agencies and ensure that AMA's reputation as a leading EHS training provider is sustained.
- Actively participate as an instructor in EHS training courses and other client-driven safety projects to include safety program review, field audits and surveys, employee exposure assessments and other workplace safety consulting needs.

Requirements, Education and Experience

- BS in Safety, Industrial Hygiene, or related field
- CSP and/or CIH Board Certification preferred
- Knowledge of OSHA regulatory standards
- 10+ years of progressive EHS consulting and adult learning/training experience
- Strong management, planning and organizational skills and ability to prioritize workload
- Proficient in personal computing skills including Microsoft Office PowerPoint

Must be able to travel to and work in corporate office in Hanover, Maryland. Local and some out of state travel is required.

Must be COVID-19 vaccinated by time of employment. (Company has achieved 100% vaccination of employees). Must be able to pass drug test and federal government background checks in order to obtain contractor clearance for access to government facilities.

AMA offers a highly competitive salary, incentive plan, and benefits package as well as a team of co-workers who provide high quality service that exceeds clients' expectations. Benefits include:

- Health, Dental and Vision Insurance
- 401K Benefits with company match
- Vacation and Personal Days
- Life Insurance and Long-term Disability

Email Resume to jobs@amaconsulting.com